BACK TO SCHOOL APPEAL

We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves to the preservation of the lives of our community's young. Through our efforts we shall hope to keep this oath of "Live and let live." The school doors open, the school bell calls, and the roads, highways and streets become the line of march for student feet. Shall we, through carelessness and thoughtfulness, halt this parade? As automobile drivers and public-spirited citizens, as well as fathers and neighbors, we will give our word to do all possible to cut down the yearly toll of deaths caused to school children by motorists throughout America. We have heard for this community to wish to detract from its name of fair play. Let us give our youth a fighting chance as they travel. Let us play fair!

Signed:

Citizens of The Lake Okechobee Region.
(Believing that every citizen of this section would gladly sign such a pledge, we are publishing it merely as a reminder that school is about to start and it is our duty to protect the youngsters.)

ABSTRACT OF TITLE

In Tallahassee last week Irving Morse picked up an amusing letter purported to have been written by a Florida abstractor to an attorney client who had had no experience with the Spanish land grants of this state, nor with the laws of Florida property titles, and who wanted the chain carried further back. The abstractor's alleged reply follows:

Dear Sir—Our abstract shows the title from the United States to the present time. The United States derived title from France by purchase; France secured it from Spain by right of conquest; Spain claimed title by right of discovery, having financed the venture of Mr. Columbus; the King of Spain got his authority from the Pope at Rome; the Pope got his authority by being a descendant in succession of St. Peter; St. Peter got his authority from Christ; Christ got his authority from God and God made it. This is as far back as I can trace a record.—Chermont Press.

IT ISN'T WORTH IT!

The Polish corridor is 50 miles wide and 250 miles long, a third of Florida's size. War over the Corridor has come. A general European war such as this conflict will cost not less than $100,000,000,000. The war over the Corridor will cost $25,000,000 a square mile. There are 640 acres in a square mile. The war will cost $6,000 an acre. It isn't worth it. It isn't worth one-tenth of it. The war will cost, in addition, about 10,000,000 lives. That would be 500 lives per square mile of the Corridor. There are not as many lives as that in the Corridor. The war will cost, in addition, 50,000,000 persons crippled in body and five times as many crippled in spirit. There is no way to figure a profit from a war over these 20,000 square miles. There is no way to figure a profit from war over anything. —Miami Daily News.

WE HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT!

And speaking of crystal gazing into the future, it is our guess that the United States will not be at war when September rolls around in 1940. —Tallahassee Democrat.

OFFICE SEEKS MAN

Up in Crestview a paid advertisement appeared in the Crestview Messenger announcing the candidacy of a citizen for the office of sheriff. That's nothing extraordinary. But what is extraordinary is the fact that the advertisement was not signed nor placed by the candidate himself, but by almost fifty business men and women. That seems to infer that this particular candidate is considered worthy and well qualified for the job and that he is not seeking the office but that the office is seeking him. We'd like to see more of this type of politics. —Port St. Joe Star.

A GOOD SCOUT:

Again we pay tribute to the greatness of the organization of Boy Scouts. Due to their training the boy recently lost in a Maine wilderness, found his way to safety and life. We credit the lad for his resourcefulness, and we honor his clear thinking, but it was with the help of his scout lore that he fought his way to rescue. WISE WORDS:

Today and yesterday, tomorrow and thereafter, brings us to the constant plea of the "patient." How hard it is to obey, how difficult to heed the warning of patience and its virtue. There is the wisdom of words and quality of genius in the obituary. From our efforts to live life we love, "you must be patient." From our adulthood we speak the same to those we love. The man who is wise pays heed. The Bible gives us the counsel of patience and the things to be accomplished through it. There may be a patience for evil, but patience for good is the right sort of staying power. Too bad, that too late we appreciate the wisdom of the quality and too often we are too busy to try it out.

A FORGETFUL PUBLIC

In Ohio, recently two women, convicts of a reformatory, escaped and remained in hiding for over a month before their capture. During this period the newspapers of the state made front-page news of the cases. As is usual, a certain amount of sentimentality was shown in the coverage, and many letters were sent to the superintendent of the reformatory. She was advised to use leniency and forgiveness upon the return of the prisoners. There were so many sympathetic notes that the superintendent says she was hounded to death. The reason for the sympathy was through the publicity and propaganda during the period of the escape. There were reports of marriage made the two women while they were in hiding. Did the letter-writers realize that one of these women had murdered her husband because he would not let a bride party after a day of hard work? They had probably felt a former horror when the deed had appeared on the front page of their paper. Should such men be dealt with lightly, or even leniency for their break and treated as heroines? The superintendent asks why pin a rose on these two when she has 300 women who are doing the right thing? Too often there are not such level-headed "poetry" that let. The Ohio tax-payers sleep sounder when they know that competent hands are at the heads of public institutions. This case was not such level-headed "poetry" that let. EDUCATING TO DRINK:

We are informed that the liquor industry is about to launch a publicity campaign in small towns and weekly newspapers. This means of advertising is supposed to bring rural still in the small towns of America. There are a lot of papers which still refuse the ads, although advertising is their means of making the wheels of the presses go round. Other papers will print them as intended, for educational, social, economic and political sides of the liquor question by the liquor industry. Perhaps this will be our good will, again, it may stir up distaste. It seems that the art of drinking is really a gift and not a case of intemperance when conducted in the right manner. Today when advertising is the main means of selling a product, the advertiser tries every ingenious way to unload his product. The age of camouflage has been given a setback, however, for more often the manufacturer and producer finds that "honesty is the best policy," after all. We shall see what is to be offered by the liquor industry to clear up a problem that has always been an important issue, creating enmities among friends among simple, honest, citizens, political upheavals among organized campaigns. We shall see if there is a side to logical drinking, a good, sound reason in favor of non-intoxicating liquors. Folks are wondering what there is to be said in its favor. They will form their conclusions accordingly.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

NEW YORK. It was my privilege to stand in Times Square last Saturday night as part of a parade, jostling mob that had gathered at 10:30 last minute war news flaring ribbons of light on three sides of the Times building told the tragic story. Individual faces, formed at one corner of the building, took their places on the first moving animated sign to form each word.

Every nationality, I believe, was represented in the throng that lined the sidewalks. Poles, Jews, Irish, Germans, Czechs, Italians, Englishmen, Americans from the middle-west, Yankees from New England, Southerners, and perhaps a genuine New Yorker (although the average resident of the great city is seldom found in the streets) that mill around Times Square, this pastime being left largely to the yokels, made up of a floating population of a million or more from anywhere and everywhere.

It was rather a gay crowd, a curious rather than alarmed group. Some and then someone would break out, usually in broken English, Polish, Italian or German, as the names of the individuals were stirred by the news flashed from the bulletin board. But the controversies were not heated and the crowd was generally well behaved and keenly interested.

Everywhere was color and gaiety, night spots brilliantly illuminated, beckoned from a dozen directions. Those concerned with the news occupied the outer edge of the crowd, while conversationalists and streamers of people moved in a lane closer to the building. Streets were jammed with hooting tanks, buses and pleasure cars.

Newsboys worked their way through the crowd with "Extra!" reading "Hitler Says War or No Peace." From the bits of general conversation I could gather it was evident that sympathy was decidedly with Poland and against Germany, and over and over again I heard the expression "I hope we stay out of it."

Earlier in the day I visited a number of the great foreign exhibits at the World's Fair. Exhibits that told of the charm and beauty, the industrial and agricultural development and advantages offered by the various nations represented. Displays from Great Britain, Italy, Turkey, Russia, France, Poland and many other lands.

At these buildings I had been greeted in a friendly and courteous manner. Ladies with a distinctive British accent were happy to show me about; chic French girls sold me cigarettes and called me "mon-sieur"; dark-eyed Italians proudly showed me the craftsmanship of the Italian worker. The situation in Europe, grave as it was, had seemed to have no effect on the exhibits of these European nations at the Fair.

Here, gathered in one area of the great Exposition, were representatives of almost every European nation, all of them on friendly terms, each engaged in presenting to the world the interesting story of their respective countries. The atmosphere of the visitors "warmed through the different halls, all in more or less a holiday mood. All was gaiety and color. The war seemed very far away.

It struck me as tragic indeed that the friendship, harmony and good will so in evidence here, with nations standing shoulder to shoulder, presenting all that is good and worthwhile, should on the other side of the water be mused at such others' borders, bayonet in hand and hatred in their hearts.

And the pitiful thing is that these folks we term "foreigners" because they live in a different land, speak a different language, and practice different customs, are still very much like us and very much like each other. They are all human beings; friendly, kind, courteous, peaceful and industrious.

Yet, under the leadership of a little group of selfish, unscrupulous men, the great masses of these nations are so poisoned with hate, and driven into mass murder and ultimate national ruin just through lack of plain tolerance and ordinary human understanding.

God grant that this time America will keep her head and, in the words of our President, see to it that "There is no black-out of Peace."

FRIGIDAIRE FACTS BY DEALER BOE

Seasons have a way of demanding different foods to satisfy changing appetites. With hot weather, especially requiring foods that make eating more zestful, dishes that add "sparkle" to meals are helpful in creating more pleasant and enjoyable dinners for the family or for guests.

The following menu is ideal for hot weather because it is convenient to prepare. All of the food is baked in the oven at the same time and at the same temperature. This menu, developed in the Frigidaire test kitchen, also is easy on the food budget, as it includes economical ingredients.

ORECHONKO, WOMAN IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Okeechobee, Fla. Sept. 7. Miss Kate King, 24, of Okeechobee, was instantly killed Tuesday when the automobile she was driving left the road and overturned 10 miles north of Port Drum on state road 29.

University Ready For Enrollment Of '39-40 Student Body

Looking Forward To First Grid Game Of The Season, Sept. 23

University of Florida—More than 3,000 students will move this state university campus next week, and another college year will get under way. Largest single group among the students will be the freshmen—a group approximating 1,000 youths who have never attended classes here before. It is expected to be the largest group of first-year students to ever enroll at the University.

As in years past, the first week will be one of orientation for the new students. Under the supervision of faculty members and a number of outstanding older students, the freshmen will learn just how different college life is from the high school life to which they have been accustomed. Student body president Ed Root, Bradenton, and Honor Court Chancellor Emmett Smith, St. Augustine, will describe the organization and functions of the University's broad student government and the "Honor System" which is traditional at Florida.

The night of Sept. 23 will be one of the first highlights on the new year's calendar, and students will be anxiously awaiting the opening football game with Stetson on that night. Coach Josh Cody has already had his squad of some 40 inexperienced grid hopefuls in training at the university conservation reserve at Welaka for a week, but has much to do before that opening contest two weeks hence. A new coach will join the squad this week and devote time to the backfield aspirants. He is Curley Stebbins, a great Pittsburgh back who finished his playing career last year. On a part-time coaching basis, while attending law school, Stebbins joins two former Pittsburgh coaches on the varsity staff, Harold Williams, backfield coach, and Mike Milligan, line mentor.

Hanks Retires As President F-P-L CO. Effective Sept. 11

It Is Expected That McGregor Smith Will Succeed Him

Bryan Hanks, president of the Florida Power & Light company since 1937, and Will M. Preston, who has been with the legal department of the company since 1928, and head of that department since 1938, announced Wednesday the formation of the law firm of Hanks & Preston. The new firm will be chief counsel for Florida Power & Light company and associated companies, and will also engage in the general practice of law, with offices in the Ingraham building, W. L. Gray, Jr., and Shelby Gaskin, who have been in the legal department of Florida Power & Light company for a number of years, will be associated with the new law firm of Hanks & Preston. Other employees of the legal department of the company will either be associated with the new firm or continue in the employ of the company. The legal department of Florida Power & Light company will be discontinued.

Mr. Hanks stated that he joined the Florida Power & Light company in 1925 as head of the legal department, and was made president in 1937, at a time when the legal problems demanded a larger part of the attention of the executives. This condition no longer exists, permitting him to return to the practice of law at the expiration of his present term on September 11, leaving the operations and management of the company in charge of McGregor Smith, an engineer and utility operator of wide experience.

Prior to coming with the company in January 1928, as vice-president and general manager, Mr. Smith was president and general manager of the Louisiana Power & Light company. It is expected that he will be elected president and general manager of the company at the annual meeting on September 11. Mr. Hanks will remain a director of the company. The new law firm will begin operations on that date.

Before their association with the legal department of Florida Power & Light company, Mr. Hanks was in the law firm of Hughes, Round, Schurman & Dwight, of New York, and in the legal department of Electric Bond and Share Company, New York. Mr. Preston was with the law firm of Morrow & Hawthorne, of Miami; W. L. Gray, Jr., was with the law firm of Shelby Gaskin, who was with the Blackwell & Gray of Miami; and law firm of Crawford & Gaskin, of Orlando.

PAHOKEE

When your son or daughter is away at school, does your guiding influence remain at home?

As boys and girls leave for school and college, home is made lonely and the young people face homesickness and separation from the guiding influence of home.

The affectionate, sympathetic understanding present in home life is difficult to replace by letters, but by telephone, home ties can be kept alive and warm. Telephone visits at regular intervals with children away at school are as intimate as though the children were at home with you. They'll be happier, and do better work. And what a joy these inexpensive visits will be to you.

The best plan is to arrange for your boy or girl to call home "collect" at regular intervals at a particular time. Then by using Station-to-Station service after 7 P. M. or at any time on Sundays, you can talk 100 miles for 35c, 200 miles—65c, and greater distances at correspondingly low cost.
